

Seventy-first Generation

Beli Mawr (The Great), was an ancestor deity in Welsh mythology. Several royal lines in medieval Wales traced their ancestry to him.

He is often considered to have derived from the Celtic god Belenus. A number of conflicting linguistic theories have been proposed for the origin of the name. One suggestion is that it may be derived from Bolgios, a name attested as the leader of a Gaulish attack on Macedon in the 3rd century BC. It is probably related to the element bel- in the Old Irish Beltane (modern Irish bealtaine, Gaelic bealtuinn "May-day", "month of May"), which means "bright-fire". The Gaulish god-names "Belenos" (*Bright one) and "Belisama" are also probably related. Numerous other possible cognates could be given.

Beli had the following children:

1. Llud⁷⁰
2. Caswallon⁷⁰
3. Arianrhod
4. Llefelys

Hathra (Hwala⁷², Bedwig⁷³, Seskef⁷⁴, Magi⁷⁵, Moda⁷⁶, Vingener⁷⁷, Vingethor⁷⁸, Einridi⁷⁹, Lorida⁸⁰, Tror Thor⁸¹, King Munon of Troy⁸²) birth date unknown.

Hathra had the following child:

1. King Itermon

King Cassander (King Merodacus⁷², King Clodomir II⁷³, King Antenor⁷⁴, King Clodius⁷⁵, King Marcomir⁷⁶, King Nicanor⁷⁷, King Clodomir I⁷⁸, King Bassanus Magnus⁷⁹, King Diocles⁸⁰, King Helenus I⁸¹, King Priamus⁸², King Antenor I⁸³, King Marcomir⁸⁴, King Antenor of Commerians⁸⁵) was born before 95 BC.

King Cassander had the following child:

1. King Antharius

Cassander died in 74 BC.